Cosmetic Surgery of the nose

If you feel that your nose is not a good fit, you may benefit from cosmetic surgery of the nose, also called rhinoplasty. Rhinoplasty can enhance the shape, size, and general appearance of your nose.

You may be a good candidate for rhinoplasty if you have any of the following conditions:

Your nose appears to large for your face

There is a bump or depression on the nasal bridge when viewed in profile.

The nose seems to wide when viewed from the front

The nasal tip droops or plunges

The tip is thickened or enlarged

The nostrils are excessively flared

Your nose is off-center or crooked

A previous injury has made your nose asymmetrical

You have an air obstruction that impairs breathing

The
technique used for your surgery depends not only on Dr.
Wigoda's preferences, but also on your desired results.
Alterations may be made to increase or decrease the nasal bridge, reduce the size or width of the nose, narrow the nostrils, reshape the tip, or change the angle between the nose and the upper lip.
